We cannot but speak the things which we have seen and heard. Acts 4:20

I am happy to see that the councilmen did, according to my suggestion made recently, investigate these awful rumors about the city's "law" and after investigation, gave the city's "law" their commendation in a sense, gave the green light go-ahead signal. The investigating body agreed that these wild tales were told by lawless elements of the community. Now, if the city law and the county law could cooperated better, law-abiding citizens of this community would do better and live better and do better. As for the writer, he has never accused anybody of anything; he merely brought to print some of these wild tales going the rounds in Grenada.

I am happy to see that, at long last, the Miss. Economic Council is urging what I have been talking about for years & years: doing away with the "5 counties in 1 county" system of county government. Inasmuch as Grenada County is, first, a small county, and, second, it is a one town county, a change is more urgent here than in many other counties.

More and more people are beginning to see that I have been right all the time about this situation. I still want to say, in justice to the gentlemen now serving on the county board, that they are the inheritors not the creators, of this system.

The local IC folks gave Mr. Ellsby and family a mighty nice surprise party up on Enid Dam Monday. Mr. Ellsby will leave for Jackson, Tenn., in the near future. Good luck!

The Spains, who are to operate the big grocery store on 2nd Street, which will have a formal opening on Monday, authorized us to send them the GCW for a year. Thanks. The new store's name, Big Star.

Ken Sanders, president of the county board of supervisors, attended the meeting of the City Council Monday night, probably learning some of the fine points of parliamentary law from Mayor Clanton, who presided over the city's governing body.

Little Emily Pads, our granddaughter, calls me "daddy". In fact, she calls all men "daddy", and roused South Street Tuesday morning calling Joe Cook, then passing by, "dad" but Joe just walked on more rapidly.

L. Friedman, whom Keene Huffing calls the antique merchant, showed up Tuesday morning with a place and a black mark on his left cheek bone. Whether from men-trouble, horse trouble, or no trouble, he did not explain.

could not help but notice Mrs. R. L. Boteler, Jr. and their fine set of kids Monday as they drove into town and stopped on Green Street.

D. Wilkins is now working for Van Motor Company.

I don't know on what side the fault is but it is apparent to most of us there is considerable friction between the city law and the county. It would be so much better for us humble citizens, not particular of either side, for there to be cooperation between the two.

Charter Member R. W. Jones of in the swamp, sent in his report Tuesday.

Bell, Gore To Open Law Firm In Grenada

Thomas A. Bell and Jay Gore, Jr. have made known their plans for the opening of law offices in the Heath Building on or about Sept. 1, 1953. With the conviction that Grenada has grown to the size that it needs the services that a law firm can offer, these two young men have formed a partnership for the general practice of law.

Both men are natives of Grenada and graduates of Grenada High.

After serving four years as a Bomber Pilot during World War II, Mr. Bell returned to college and earned his Bachelor of Arts and Law Degree at the U. of Mississippi. He returned to Grenada in 1949, opened a law office here and served as County Prosecuting Attorney from July 1, 1950 to January, 1951.

Because of the Korean War Mr. Bell's civilian law career was interrupted by being called back into active military duty. He was assigned to and served 22 months with the Judge Advocate General Corps as a military lawyer.

Upon his discharge from the Army Mr. Bell accepted a position in the Claim Dept. of the USF&G Insurance Co. Soon after joining this organization he was placed in charge of the Delta Claims office at Greenville, where he and his wife are living at present.

Mr. Gore served as a naval gunnery officer in the Pacific Theater during World War II, and was honored by being selected as a special officer courier for the first United Nations Conference at San Francisco. He was later made commanding officer of his ship.

After earning his Bachelor of Arts degree at Ole Miss after the war Mr. Gore attended and was graduated from Duke U. School of Law at Durham, N. C., with a Bachelor of Laws degree.

Mr. Gore returned to Mississippi and has been practicing law for the last few years as an associate of the law firm of Brewer and Brewer in Clarksdale.

Mr. Gore and Mary Jane Daigre were married in Grenada in 1949 and they now have one son, Jay Gore, III, age 10 months.

Both families plan to make their permanent home here in Grenada.

POLICE DEPT. RUMORS ARE UNFOUNDED

Reports City Council After Investigation

After investigating various rumors concerning members of the City Police Dept. Council members complimented the policemen on the work they were doing and stated that the rumors concerning the police were unfounded. They recommended that the Police continue to enforce the laws of the City.

O. W. Geeslin was the successful bidder for the leasing of 865 acres of agriculture land in the Air Base area. He bid $2,250. The Barksdale Brothers of Conchooma County bid $2,000 more or $2,450.

John Ed Carpenter appeared before the Board and asked that certain changes be made in the lot restriction ordinance. The Council members voted that the minimum footage for a one family dwelling unit be 5,000 square feet instead of the 7,500 square feet formerly required.

Director Miss. Power & Light Co.FREEZING FRUITS

Handle gently and quickly for best results. Choose your fruits with utmost care. Fruit keeps its flavor and freezes best when it is plucked at the height of its maturity. Make sure that all bruised or spoiled pieces are discarded. Delicately flavored, fragile berries should be examined particularly carefully, both before and after washing.

Take a little at a time. The smaller the quantity of the fruit you handle at a time, the better. Fruits tend to become soft and soggy quickly, and certain ones discolor through oxidation almost as soon as the cut surface is exposed to air.

First... wash. Washing fruits in cold water is of utmost importance in preparing them for freezing. All wild fruit and low-growing fruit should be washed at least twice. Ice water used for washing will "firm" the fruit. After washing and draining, spread fruit on a tray lined with several thicknesses of absorbent paper toweling, to remove excess moisture.

Now... stem and peel. All fruits that have stems or caps must be washed before stem or cap is removed. This is to prevent the fruit from absorbing the washing water. Always lift stems from ripe raspberries, dewberries and gooseberries; never squeeze them off. Use knife to stem strawberries. Handle apples, apricots, peaches and pears with particular care and speed, to prevent discoloration. This subject is discussed at length in the following paragraphs.

Work fast and handle gently... fruits bruise easily and have to be handled gently. And because some fruits "turn" and discolor quickly, you have to handle them with speed, too. Don't waste any time. The quicker you can get fruits prepared, packed, and sealed and into your Home Freezer, the better. That's another reason for dealing only in small quantities at a time.

To avoid discoloration... Again, we repeat, use only small quantities of fruit at a time, and handle them as quickly as you can. But if you can't handle in small quantities and work fast, discoloration can be minimized by either of these two methods:

(1) Dip fruit immediately after peeling into a solution of three-tablespoons of lemon juice to a gallon of cold water or (2) Dip fruit immediately after peeling into a recommended ascorbic acid solution of 1/4 teaspoon ascorbic acid crystals to one cup syrup or juice. Either of these methods will temporarily halt the oxidation process that ruins color, but it is still advisable to use the utmost care in packaging. Small packages should be used in preparing fruits like peaches and apricots, as these discolor more rapidly than other types.

Now add sugar... One way to sweeten fruit to a queen's taste and protect it during storage, is to fill about one-fourth of the container with fruit. Then sprinkle in about one-fourth of the sugar. Shake the container gently to distribute the sugar evenly. Avoid violent agitation or hard pressure on the outside of the container. Now add another layer of fruit, another layer of sugar and so on until container is filled. A good rule to remember is: for very sweet preserving use one part sugar to three parts fruit; for not so sweet, a one-to-five ratio is advised.

Syrup is also a good sweetening and protective agent for fruits. Fill container with fruit, leaving some space for expansion; cover with syrup, seal and freeze.

WARNING: Be sure that syrup is cold before using.

FED ROBINSON

Secretary of Defense, Charles Wilson had the courage the other day to stretch his political neck far out when he told the Pentagon group that "We can get more military strength for the effort we make and the dollars we spend." That certainly was a new note in the brass section of the country's marching song. We hope the same thing doesn't happen to Mr. Wilson that happened to a certain waitress who while working the Senator's lunch room during the war, told a big shot senator who had demanded more sugar for his coffee when sugar was scarce, "you'd be all right senator if you would stir what you've got", and just for one moment while her statement ran in the papers the waitress was a heroine, but nobody has heard of her since.

"Get more out of less" says Charles Wilson and "Stir what you've got" said the philosophical waitress, and both were so right and logical they will probably never be popular with followers of the vain theory that as a nation we can and should SPEND ourselves into prosperity.

Having migrated from the other side of the tracks, I am always mindful of those people who must stir their sugar for all its worth every time, and of those 27 million American homes that have no kitchen sink, and 40 million who have neither bath tub or shower, and 25 million who have no vacuum cleaner and 19 million who have no washing machines. (The Robinsons now have a washing machine, thank you.) Then there are those who have no homes of their own, those who have sick and crippled children, those who have no jobs and those who have been victims of war and have no arm or leg and many thousands in mental hospitals and concentration camps of a kid or another. Ah, yes, America there's still a lot of sugar in the bottom of your cup. Stir it again and again and help make it possible for others to have a share of it too.

The other day a contestant in a photo taking contest won the top prize with a picture he had taken at a street intersection in Louisville, Kentucky. There in the picture were about 25 people, waiting anxiously for the turn of the signal light and on every face was a scowl of impatience and restless irritability. There they stood counting as total loss the 30 seconds they spent waiting for the signal. They had every appearance of good health, with money in their pockets, bundles of new things under their arms, fine automobiles parked at the curb, good homes to go to at the end of the day, and a blue sky above them. Yet these people were not happy, simply because THINGS will not make us happy. We have plenty sugar in the bottom of our cups and a silver spoon to stir it, but we are not satisfied unless we can see a big supply stored away in the pantry.

Birthday Greetings To These: W. K. AT NIGHT IT'S LIGHT ON Concrete Roads

At night you can see farther Concrete saves money, and better on concrete. Its too. It is moderate in first light-colored surface spreads cost yet can be designed accurately for any axle load—and concrete keeps its load-carrying capacity throughout its long service life.

Night or day, wet or dry, concrete has uniformly high skid-resistance because of its permanently gritty texture. Less to maintain, last much longer. All this adds up to low-annual-cost service.

Scraping The Beat System (Editorial)

Jackson, Miss. - The state constitution does not authorize or contemplate the use of the "beat" system for construction and maintenance of county roads, the Miss. Economic Council charges.

In the last of its series of reports based on a two-year study of county government, the Council said the constitutional provision setting up five districts in each county was "for the purpose of electing members to the board of supervisors." It charged the constitution's framers "did not contemplate that the county road system would be divided into separate road districts within each county."

The Council attributed the development of the "beat" system of working county roads to "legislative and public action and inaction." It said the method now has become a "tradition" and, while it was advisable in the days of dirt roads and mule-power graders, it is "increasingly subject to doubt and criticism. It said it results in "increased taxes and poorer roads."

The Council again called for adoption of the "county unit" system of road building and maintenance under which one set of machinery and one labor crew can do the work for an entire county. It cited four reasons for scrapping the "beat" system.

1. It places equipment in too small an area for efficient maintenance.
2. Small and irregular purchases result in high unit costs.
3. It divides the county electorate into antagonistic factions, each seeking the interests of the district rather than that of the county as a whole.

Rev. C. M. Roby, until Monday pastor of the Grenada Church of the Nazarene, made an affidavit against Allen Chapman, charging assault.

They were in Justice of Peace Court Monday morning with their lawyers. Rev. Roby was represented by County Attorney Bill Fredric and Mr. Chapman by Atty. Ike Stone.

Justice of the Peace Bryan Baker assessed a $100 fine plus costs against Mr. Chapman, but his attorney, Mr. Stone, appealed the case to Circuit Court. He was placed under a $250 bond which was paid.

The alleged assault took place last week.

Rev. Roby left earlier this week for the pastorate of the Nazarene Church in Jasper, Ala.

CHICKEN AND RICE SALAD

Miss Mary McMeekin, Chief Food Economist with Rice Consumer Service, sent the recipe which is being featured in today's column.

This recipe should appeal to homemakers who need to stretch the food budget and to homemakers who like to cook with fold—the cold of your electric refrigerator.

There is more to this salad than meets the eye. Underneath the snow white surface of this "Chicken and Rice Salad" is goodness that will bring an exclamation of "THIS IS WONDERFUL" to the lips of all who taste it.

Mold the salad in an interesting shape if you wish, or let it congeal in a square or oblong pan. Serve it on a bed of greens, or garnish it with a product of your imagination.

What is important is to experience the flavor of this marvelous tasting "Chicken and Rice Salad" which won a first place award in the rice and meat division of the Creole Rice Cookery Contest at the 1951 International Rice Festival.

INGREDIENTS

- 1-1/2 cups diced boiled chicken
- 1 cup cold boiled rice
- 2/4 cup chopped celery
- 2 tablespoons chopped green peppers
- 1 tablespoon chopped sour pickle
- 6 chopped stuffed olives
- 12 pecan halves chopped
- 1/2 tablespoon chopped parsley
- 2/3 cups mayonnaise
- 2/3 cups whipped cream
- 1 tablespoon gelatin
- 2 cups cold water
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- Dash of black pepper and red pepper
- Dash of paprika

PREPARING THE FLUFFY WHITE RICE: To make 3 liberal cups of fluffy rice: put 1 cup of uncooked rice, 2 cups of cold water and 1 teaspoon of salt in a two-quart saucepan and cover with a tight-fitting lid. Bring to a vigorous boil and then turn the heat as low as possible—leave over this low heat for 14 minutes. Turn off the heat. This cooking time results in firm grains of cooked rice. (For extra tender grains, allow the rice to steam (with heat off) an additional 5 minutes before removing the lid.)

Never remove lid nor stir rice while it is cooking. After rice is cooled, remove lid, lift rice gently with fork to allow rice to steam dry to the desired consistency. It is then ready—perfectly cooked and the grains will be separate and fluffy. This method allows all the water to be absorbed and the full nutritional value of the rice to be retained.

Keep left-over cooked rice in the refrigerator in a covered container at all times. You will find it convenient for making many quick, easy and delicious dishes.

METHOD: Combine chicken, rice, celery, green pepper, sour pickle, olives, pecans and parsley. Add mayonnaise and whipped cream. Add the gelatin which has softened in cold water for 5 minutes and has been melted over hot water. Cool. Add the salt, pepper and paprika. Mix all the ingredients well and chill in a mold or pan.

This recipe makes eight servings.

The farm population of our state has made great advances in crop diversification and cultivation, in dairying, cattle raising and other lines," he declared, "and our industrial progress has been outstanding, too; we have outdistanced many other areas in our improved transportation and communication facilities. These things Mississippi has and we ought to sell the idea everywhere."

MID SOUTH FAIR TO BE GREATEST EVER

"More To See In '53"

Is Theme

Never before will a promise be more adequately fulfilled than at the 1953 Mid-South Fair and Livestock Show, Sept. 24 - Oct. 3.

A glance at the list of fun and thrill attractions and educational exhibits booked for the 10-day exposition will convince the most skeptical that the men behind the show this year have packed more entertainment features, more eye-arresting and thought-provoking displays into the bulging Fair package than ever before.

First, there'll be the World Championship Rodeo for 17 spine-tingling performances, in which cowboys will vie for $14,000 in cash prizes. Featured will be the Hendricks Family, direct from Madison Square Garden in New York; Slim Pickens, Hollywood's funniest cowpoke, and Buck Robinson and his bull fighting bear.

An outstanding array of acts, including "Rhythm on Ice", will be seen in the Sports Show, and W. G. Wade Shows will present its "Magic Mile of Midway" for the first time in the South. Besides exciting shows and revues, fascinating games and rides, the Fair will have one of the two Rotor Rides in the country, the Midway newest and greatest thrill ride ever presented.

For sheer fun, there will be free variety shows, talent shows and acts from the Grand Ole Opry. "The Sky Kings", America's greatest living daredevil, will give two free shows daily. Free organ concerts will be given in the Women's Building by Lewis Gerald, celebrated English organist.

An entirely new feature of the Fair this year will be an Automobile and Truck Show in which ancient jalopies and hot rods also will be seen.

On the agricultural side, there'll be on exhibit hundreds of the finest cattle, swine and sheep in the Nation. This will be headed by the Regional Holstein-Friesian Show and the National Junior Dairy Show.

The Agricultural Building will be filled with specimens of the finest crops grown in Dixie this year—everything from cotton and rice to grass and clover seed and topnotch poultry and eggs. The Woman's Building will be crowded with thousands of exhibits from Southern homes fashioned by Southern hands.

Total attendance this year is expected to run well above the 400,000 mark, and last year's 50,000 Sunday attendance figure likely will be broken.

Advance tickets will go on sale September 8 and will be offered thru Sept. 19 at booths, plants and stores throughout Memphis and in numerous Mid South cities and towns.

Regular 60-cent admission tickets may be purchased in advance for 40 cents. One 40-cent adult ticket will admit two children 12 years or under.

4-H WINNERS FROM 39 COUNTIES AT SARDIS LAKE FOR LEADERSHIP MEET

Seventy-two boys and girls, 4-H Junior Leadership competition winners from 39 North Mississippi counties, gathered at Sardis Lake August 3 for the annual four-day 4-H Junior Leadership Training Conference. Scraping The Beat System (Editorial)

Jackson, Miss. - The state constitution does not authorize or contemplate the use of the "beat" system for construction and maintenance of county roads, the Miss. Economic Council charges.

In the last of its series of reports based on a two-year study of county government, the Council said the constitutional provision setting up five districts in each county was "for the purpose of electing members to the board of supervisors." It charged the constitution's framers had not contemplated that the county road system would be divided into separate road districts within each county.

The Council attributed the development of the "beat" system of working county roads to "legislative and public action and inaction." It said the method now has become a "tradition" and, while it was advisable in the days of dirt roads and mule-power graders, it is "increasingly subject to doubt and criticism. It said it results in "increased taxes and poorer roads."

The Council again called for adoption of the "county unit" system of road building and maintenance under which one set of machinery and one labor crew can do the work for an entire county. It cited four reasons for scrapping the "beat" system:

1. It places equipment in too small an area for efficient maintenance.
2. Small and irregular purchases result in high unit costs.
3. It divides the county electorate

BROOKHAVEN—Lieutenant Governor Carroll Gartin was the principal speaker and many other men of prominence took part in rural telephone day ceremonies Wednesday morning in the nearby Loyd Star community.

The celebration marked the beginning of service on an important part of one of the largest rural telephone undertakings to be started in Mississippi this year by the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company.

In his address delivered at the Loyd Star Consolidated School, Lieutenant Governor Gartin pointed with pride to Mississippi's great progress in many lines during recent years.

The farm population of our state has made great advances in crop diversification and cultivation in dairy, cattle raising and other lines," he declared, "and our industrial progress has been outstanding, too; we have outdistanced many other areas in our improved transportation and communication facilities. These things Mississippi has and we ought to sell the idea everywhere."

A large crowd was on hand to hear the Lieutenant Governor and others on the program for the celebration which was sponsored by citizens of the Loyd Star and New Sight School Districts and business people of Brookhaven.

W. B. (Sambo) Smith was chairman of the committee which organized the affair and Bryant Cummings, Educational Director of the First Baptist Church in Brookhaven, acted as Master of Ceremonies.

CHICKEN AND RICE SALAD

Miss Mary McMeekin, Chief Food Economist with Rice Consumer Service, sent the recipe which is being featured in today's column.

This recipe should appeal to homemakers who need to stretch the food budget and to homemakers who like to cook with cold—the cold of your electric refrigerator.

There is more to this salad than meets the eye. Underneath the snow white surface of this "Chicken and Rice Salad" is goodness that will bring an exclamation of "THIS IS WONDERFUL" to the lips of all who taste it.

Mold the salad in an interesting shape if you wish, or let it congeal in a square or oblong pan. Serve it on a bed of greens, or garnish it with a product of your imagination.

What is important is to preserve the flavor of this marvelous tasting "Chicken and Rice Salad" which won a first place award in the rice and meat division of the Creole Rice Cookery Contest at the 1951 International Rice Festival.

INGREDIENTS

- 1 1/2 cups diced boiled chicken
- 1 cup cold boiled rice
- 2 1/2 cups chopped celery
- 2 tablespoons chopped green peppers
- 1 tablespoon chopped sour pickle
- 5 chopped stuffed olives
- 12 pecan halves chopped
- 1/2 tablespoon chopped parsley
- 2 1/2 cups mayonnaise
- 2 1/2 cups whipped cream
- 1 tablespoon gelatin
- 2 cups cold water
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- Dash of black pepper and red pepper
- Dash of paprika

PREPARING THE FLUFFY WHITE RICE: To make 3 liberal cups of fluffy rice: put 1 cup of uncooked rice, 2 cups of cold water and 1 teaspoon of salt in a two-quart saucepan and cover with a tight-fitting lid. Bring to a vigorous boil and then turn the heat as low as possible—leave over this low heat for 14 minutes. Turn off the heat. This cooking time results in firm grains of cooked rice. (For extra tender grains, allow the rice to steam (with heat off) an additional 5 minutes before removing the lid.)

Never remove lid nor stir rice while it is cooking. After rice is cooked, remove lid, lift rice gently with fork to allow rice to steam dry to the desired consistency. It is then ready—perfectly cooked and the grains will be separate and fluffy. This method allows all the water to be absorbed and the full nutritional value of the rice to be retained.

Keep left-over cooked rice in the refrigerator in a covered container at all times. You will find it convenient for making many quick, easy and delicious dishes.

METHOD: Combine chicken, rice, celery, green pepper, sour pickle, olives, pecans and parsley. Add mayonnaise and whipped cream. Add the gelatin which has softened in cold water for 5 minutes and has been melted over hot water. Cool. Add the salt, pepper and paprika. Mix all the ingredients well and chill in a mold or pan.

This recipe makes eight servings.

The hungry husband rushing homeward.

His loving wife accosting,
No longer asks—"What's cooking?"

But more亟ly—"What's deposited?"

This is a question that is being asked in more and more homes.
Over 85% of all home freezers now have gone into the town and city residences. Less than 15% go into the rural home.

If you are not using a freezer in your home, why not start and take advantage of the following opportunities:

1. No more drudgery in shopping —no need to go out into the rain and shop. Shop at your leisure and whenever you please.
2. "Dinner" in your own home—meals can be selected to suit appetites. You have a real menu to choose from.
3. Shortest meal preparation—in several minutes a several course dinner can be served from foods taken directly from the freezer.
4. Every food has its season.
All T. with a home freezer you eat what you want when you want it. You have a safer, healthier diet in your home.
5. Save approximately twenty cents out of every dollar you pay for meat by buying in quantity and packing straight in your freezer.
6. Save approximately twenty five cents out of each dollar you pay for cream by buying in gallon or five gallon size containers.
7. Your money looks twice as far when you buy fruits and vegetables by the basket, in season.
8. You can combine hunting and fishing pleasure with greater meattime enjoyment—and practical food savings, too!
9. You are always prepared for guests when you own a home freezer. Friends are always "welcome" no matter when they drop in, you're always prepared.
10. Cook ahead—bake ahead.
Freeze what you don't need immediately—then have that extra pie or cake whenever you want it.
11. Do away with the drudgery of summer canning.
Remember, you are the boss when you own a home freezer, as you eat what you like when you like it. Shop when you want to,
and you buy when it's best for you—when quality is high and prices low.

GRENADA COUNTY WEEKLY

the GCW to Cousin Ira Hounsville who is still quite sick in his home in Pearidge. We were hoping to see him in town soon so that he could partially catch up with his hand shaking for which he was very famous. I shall never forget when B. W. Smith and I were building the famous Holcomb bridge. My hands were on the south side of the river; B. W.'s on the north side of the river. One of my little boys and I were looking at the progress of the work. One of them spotted Cousin Ira on Smith's side of the river. "Papa", he said, "there is a man from Grenada working." He had seen Cousin Ira in Grenada almost every time he was in Grenada and, naturally thought, he must be that Cousin Ira lived in Grenada.

Preacher Lawrence in Holcomb is a new subscriber. Fulton McRee, Holcombs exponent of the easy life, paid for the preacher's subscription.

Those folks at Sparta could have had a much bigger crowd at the fish fry if they had served free fish. Folks like fish, especially free fish.

I have traveled along 51 to Jackson many times throughout the past 25 years, but I never saw crop prospects so uniformly good as I did on a round trip to Jackson last week. Our own county has the best prospects it has had in many, many years.

Aaron Lott of Little Texas called on me sady, and I gave him a paper as his name was in the paper in the current issue.

A few weeks ago, we had a blank page in the paper. Many folks thought that that blank meant some thing, so came in and renewed.

For instance Albert Guy, Doak's main man.

Harriett Whitaker in the free state wrote in to say that she paid her sub on such and such a day, but she was scared of that blank.

Judge Billy Semmes came to see me while I was in the hospital in Jackson.

I thought I saw Subcriber Smoky Parks of Louisville at the mess hall in the vets hospital in Jackson Wednesday. I checked up when I got home and found out it was indeed he whom I saw.

One reason I like the Jackson hospital is that you hardly ever see any "foreigners" from Alabama, Missouri, Arkansas, etc. Nearly all patients are from po' mispi. We ain't no better than other folks, but we think so.

Brother Crumby, whom we sometimes refer to as the "3-star law", has been enjoying a vacation on the Harrison County Gold Coast.

"Miss Catherine", one of our subscribers in Indian Territory sent in a renewal, also best wishes. Best wishes, returned: check, deposited.

High Pockets, Mabel reports, did not catch our car a single time when I was away in Jackson.

Wonder how Partner Warner Horton is getting along.

Cousin Louise Hall Mohead of Little Texas (beg pardon, "the other side of Little Texas") is spending her vacation in Grenada. Like all Halls, she is a fisherman, but I was shocked to learn that, instead of raising her own worms, or digging them behind the barn, she comes to Grenada to buy worms from Tommie Gene Bowen.

Charter members Ed Underwood and J. H. Horn paid up last week.

So did Mrs. Sam Simmons, Sr.

And so did Gus Donley of Star Route 2.

And, don't forget Prich Horton.

DO YOU NEED CATTLE?

Now is the time to get in the cattle business while cattle prices are low. Those farmers who establish a sound cattle program now will have a profitable use for their idle acreage when planting restrictions are imposed on cotton and soy beans.

Our program for placing cattle with farmers on a share basis has been proved to be the best possible arrangement for farmers in good times and bad, and we now have nearly 5,000 head in Mississippi. This Fall we will have additional cows and heifers for placement with the farmers who are equipped to take care of them. Write for full information.

On the highways of America the big Orange Disc at the Gulf station stands for the best in petroleum products and service. But in Mississippi, it has an added meaning.

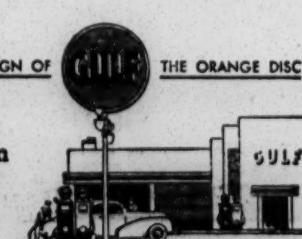

To more than 5,000 Mississippians the Gulf name means rental and royalty income from Gulf's sound, progressive development of Mississippi's oil and gas resources. More than 2,000 other Mississippi men and women count Gulf as a good employer and as a source of job opportunity for the youth of Mississippi.

To all Mississippians, the Gulf name means the indirect benefits that come from Gulf's annual expenditure of more than 15 million dollars in taxes, payrolls, rentals and material purchases—an economic contribution that is playing a major role in the state's continuing prosperity!

The big Orange Disc is indeed a good sign for Mississippi—a symbol of the faith, initiative and skill that have made Gulf an important factor in Mississippi's economic expansion.

-SOIL CONSERVATION-
(By Ray R. Blue, SCS)

L. J. Barksdale, O. W. Scott, V. E. Miles and C. D. Campbell, have recently become cooperators of the Grenada County Soil Conservation District. Mr. Barksdale, Mr. Miles and Mr. Scott have recently had stockwatering ponds constructed on their farms and have been making preparation for establishing permanent pasture. Mr. Barksdale has done considerable clearing and has made plans to establish approximately 40 acres of fescue and ladino and about 75 acres to dallis and lespedeza. He plans to apply lime and other minerals to approximately 190 acres.

A number of district cooperators attended the fish pond management demonstration conducted on the farm of J. B. Keeton and Howard Rose farm. The discussion was conducted by Jim Nipper, Fish Biologist with the State Game and Fish Commission who discussed stocking, fertilizing, weed control and management of farm ponds.

During the fall is a good time to do such work as ditching, terracing, pond construction and to get waterways established. Farmers are urged to do all of this type of work that is possible before bad weather sets in. Your local SCS workers will be glad to assist you in laying out and establishing a water disposal system.

Mrs. Clifton Morrison's Tropical Fish Make Interesting Hobby

Mrs. Clifton Morrison's interesting hobby is the raising of many varieties of tropical fish. The habits, coloration and infinite variety of the little finny creatures provide her with many amusing hours.

Mrs. Morrison has been raising tropical fish for the past 25 years and knows how to balance fish and plants in the tanks to keep the fish healthy. Lacking this knowledge, many would be fish fanciers lose fish by the tankful.

She never changes the water in her show tank which has a large number of angel fish. They are silver with black stripes and hail from the Amazon River. She feeds these fish through a ring and has clams and catfish to clean up the bottom of the tank under the feeding ring. In this tank she has oxygen plants called sagittaria. The plants give off oxygen which offsets the carbon dioxide exhaled by the fish.

Another interesting fish she has are some Blue Moons, Japanese fighting fish. The Red Betas are some mean creatures she keeps. The male Betas kill the females after mating season.

In another tank amid underwater fairy tale looking plants are some little exotic Mexican and South American fish; the zebra, neontetra and tetrovonio. The neontetras get their name from their appearance which resembles flashing neon signs.

The dwarf gouramies, red and green striped, get prettier when courting.

A useful tank fish is the Black Mollie, a type of South American scavenger catfish which cleans the tanks.

The guppies, in their own tank, are very friendly. They will eat off your finger. The male guppies eat off the surplus baby guppies and this cuts down on the supplementary life food which they need. The baby guppies have to be fed their own baby food. Their "pabulum" is composed of such delicacies as dehydrated mosquito larvae.

All Mrs. Morrison's tanks are heated electrically and the temperatures controlled thermostatically.

Her hobby is paying off these days as she is selling a number of the fish and has more to sell. She also gives sound advice about the care of the fish she sells.

Funds Now Available For Operating Loans Thru Farmers Home Admin.

Funds are now available for operating loans to family type farmers through the Farmers Home Administration, according to Mr. Thomas E.

Blue, County FSA Supervisor in Grenada County. These loans can be made to eligible operators of family type farms. The main purpose is to enable farmers to make adjustments and improvements in their farm and home plans which will result in efficient farm and home operations.

Mr. Blue states that loans may be made to buy livestock, farm and home equipment, feed, seed, lime and fertilizer. Under some conditions funds may be included in the loan to refinance debts secured by liens on livestock and farm equipment.

The amount of the loan depends upon the need as determined by the farmer's plan of operation. Mr. Blue said, Loans can be made to run from one to seven years. The number of years allowed for repayment depends upon the amount of income expected each year and the purpose for which the money is advanced.

Applications for operating loans should be made to the Farmers Home Administration office located at 133 S. Mound Street, in the Agriculture Building, Grenada, Miss.

STATE COLLEGE MAKES PROGRESS EVEN FOR AVIATION IN 75 YEARS

An illustrious Confederate son who served as the first president of what is now Mississippi State College might well be proud today of some of the achievements of the institution which he helped to launch 75 years ago this year.

Stephen D. Lee, a distinguished Lieutenant general of the Confederate Army, was elected to the post by the first Board of Trustees on December 13, 1878, and governed the campus successfully for 14 years.

On this Diamond Jubilee year General Lee might well be surprised at the growth and progress of the college and the many new services it is rendering. He most certainly would be amazed over the work of one department in a field which didn't exist in his time.

For in addition to its many other services in the field of agriculture and engineering, Mississippi State today has an Aerophysics Department which has in recent years made valuable contributions to the aviation industry accomplishments which are gaining even more attention outside Mississippi than from within the state.

The principles developed from experiments by this department are today being applied to make the aircraft more economical and efficient or the Armed Services, an accomplishment which undoubtedly would appeal to the military minded first president.

The Legislature in 1878 voted to establish the Mississippi Agricultural and Mechanical College under the Morrill Land Grant Act, under which the Federal Government donated to each state public land script equal to 30,000 acres for each senator and representative of that state in Congress.

This trust was for the endowment, support and maintenance of at least one college to include along with other scientific or classical studies, military tactics, agricultural subjects and mechanical arts.

On December 13, 1878, the Board of Trustees selected 860 acres adjoining Starkville as the site for the college.

General Lee was succeeded in 1899 by Ex-Governor John M. Stone. After the latter's death in 1900, J. C. Hardy presided over the growth of the institution during 12 eventful and sometimes stormy years.

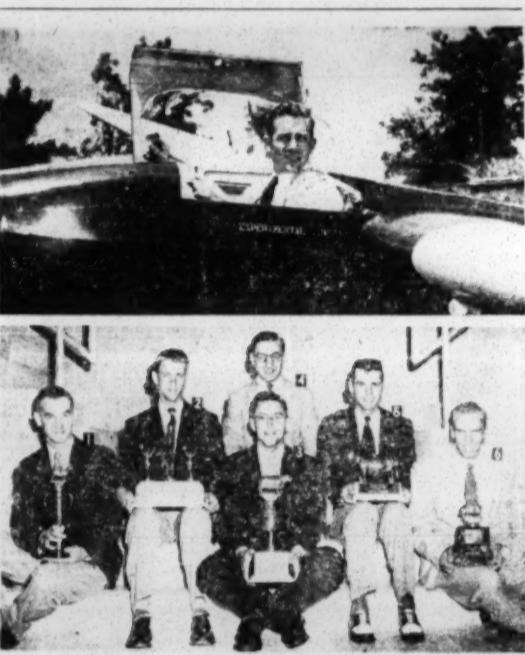

George H. Hightower followed Hardy; then came W. H. Smith, formerly state superintendent of education; Dr. David C. Hull of Meridian, an alumnus; Dr. B. M. Walker, an alumnus; Hugh Critz, an alumnus; Dr. George Duke Humphrey, now president of the University of Wyoming; Dr. Fred T. Mitchell; and now President Ben Hilburn.

All made their contributions to the development of the college, but the greatest expansion of the physical plant occurred under Lee, Hardy, Humphrey, and Mitchell.

During Dr. Mitchell's administration, 1945-53, the college library was moved into a new million dollar air-conditioned building. Other important buildings added since the war include Patterson Engineering Laboratories, Dairy Industries Building, Agricultural Engineering Building, Gymnasium, Poultry Plant, enlargement of greenhouses, enlargement of Veterinary Science Building, Moore Hall, Briscoe Hall, Carpenter Hall, Walker Hall, Garner Hall.

The new Animal Husbandry Service Building, with an amphitheater with a seating capacity of 4,000, was officially opened and dedicated April 28. An extensive remodeling of Lee Hall, badly damaged by fire in 1948, has made it a much better building than ever before.

In addition, under President Mitchell, a new laundry was built to replace the one destroyed by fire. The Textile Building was extensively remodeled to provide accommodations for the Plant

State College has many firsts in its 75-year history. Here are two more recent achievements: Top, Dick Johnson, in an experimental model which served as a test tube for developing new principles of aviation, has won top honors in this sailplane in international competition. Bottom, in another field, this State College Livestock Judging team placed first in the Southeastern Intercollegiate Judging Contest at Gainesville, Florida, recently. The team consists of (1) James Meade, Vicksburg, (2) Tom Swoope, Columbus, (3) Milton Biedenharn, Vicksburg, (4) Gene Egli, Starkville, (5) Bill Swoope, Columbus, (6) J. A. Massey, Oakland.

Maintenance Department, and for the Regional Seed Research Laboratory.

The old GM&O depot has been remodeled to serve as headquarters for the Mississippi Seed Improvement Association. A small observatory has been constructed for the use of astronomy students, and numerous walks, roads, and parking areas have greatly increased the capacity and convenience of the campus. Expert landscaping has enhanced the natural beauty of the campus.

Two faculty apartments have been added, the West Stadium has been enlarged and the East Stadium built. Fourteen temporary structures were erected in 1946 to provide additional classrooms, laboratories, and offices. Temporary living facilities for students constructed in 1946 included 100 trailers, 176 one-family units in the West Side Apartments, and several buildings in the Depot Apartments. In the latter there are now 29 units, some of them used by staff members.

This unprecedented post-war expansion was necessary to accommodate returning war veterans, who pushed campus enrollment past the 3,500 mark.

The faculty has been enlarged and strengthened; the research has been broadened and opened, in business and engineering as well as in agriculture; and the services of the Experiment Station and Extension Service expanded to reach every section of the state. It has been estimated that the services of the college now reach 82 per cent of the families in the state.

The Business Research Station, the Engineering and Industrial Research Station, the ROTC, the State Plant Board, the State Chemical Regulatory Laboratory, the Petroleum Laboratory, the Seed Improvement Association, the Seed Testing Laboratory, the Regional Seed Research Laboratory, Cooperative Creamery Association, Mississippi Artificial Breeders Cooperative, Veterans Farm Training Teaching Aids

Library, Adult Education classes and correspondence courses—all of these represent agencies and services associated with the college.

At the opening of the 1952-53 session, enrollment was slightly more than 12 per cent higher than for the previous year, freshman enrollment was 14 per cent higher than the previous year, and Mississippi State College had the largest number of resident students in attendance of any institution of higher learning in the state.

The summer programs for youth groups had the largest attendance on record in 1952. The number of people who visited the campus for the 189 short courses and the conferences during the year reached approximately 50,000. These people came from every state in the nation and from 15 foreign countries.

The 1952 Legislature conditionally appropriated funds for the construction of a chemical engineering building, the first of three proposed units for chemistry-related uses.

The American Hotel Institute, a national program of adult education for hotel employees, has been established with headquarters on the campus. The college seed laboratory last year was designated as the Southern Regional Seed Laboratory.

The Rust Foundation Trust Fund to provide scholarships has been established with grants thus far totaling $20,000. Scholarship Day has been established as an annual event to honor those students who have demonstrated outstanding scholarship ability.

Two books have been published about the college and its leaders during this anniversary year: one, a biography of the late, great Dr. William Flowers Hand by Ben Hilburn; and the other, a history of the college by Dr. John K. Bettsworth, head of the department of history and government.

With three quarters of a century behind it, the college is looking ahead to even greater service

"Valley Gas Dollars Stay In Mississippi"

You bet they do, because Valley Gas is entirely a Mississippi company. Payroll dollars to hundreds of employees, purchases of materials and supplies, and payments to investors—all add to the prosperity of Mississippi.

For Mississippi Valley Gas Company is home-operated, organized under the laws of this State and its only home office is in Jackson. Valley Gas has one job—dependable gas service to 28 Mississippi communities.

This service is backed by experience—almost all Valley Gas people have built their careers in the gas industries of this state. They are friends and neighbors who know the gas business and all know Mississippi.

People all over Mississippi own a part of Valley Gas. Today a majority of shares in this company are owned by individuals in Mississippi and immediate neighboring states. That expression of confidence makes us proud—and we are glad that, in every part of our operation, so many Valley Gas dollars stay in Mississippi.

Construction Of FFA Camp
Begun This Week

Ground was broken early this week for the $50,000 North Mississippi Future Farmers of America Camp located on a 20 acre plot at the Grenada Reservoir.

The camp, designed by Architect W. I. Rosamond of Columbus, includes a combination recreation-dining-kitchen hall and three bunk houses. Each bunk house will sleep 24 boys at a time.

A four inch well with a 50 gallon per minute capacity, is being dug. They will also excavate a three acre demonstration pond where swimming instructions will be given the boys.

A. P. Fatheree, state FFA adviser of Jackson, was here this week over looking the initial stages of construction. He expressed gratitude to the many Grenadians who are cooperating with the FFA. Special thanks were extended to Marion G. Knight, reservoir manager with the U. S. Engineers and C. E. Sprayberry, vocational agriculture teacher at Gore Springs, who is supervising the construction work.

He thanked also members of the Grenada County Board of Supervisors who are helping with the grading and road construction and the USED who are giving their full co-

PREREQUISITES TO GOOD HEALTH

A balanced diet and adequate rest are essential to good health. The Greeks recognized this simple truth more than five hundred years before the coming of Christ. Under the pressure of modern living, proper diet and rest are more important than ever before. Nutritious food and adequate sleep give the body energy—a chance to resist disease. For your health's sake, avoid fatigue, strain, and skimpy meals. Take care of your body. It's the only one you will ever have.
